THE HUGHES FAMILY

Tony and Rachael have been homeschooling for 6 years. They have 4 sons; Galen, Deacon, Corin, and Aren. When asked why they made the choice to homeschool their children Rachael stated, "We wanted to train them with our values and beliefs and allow them to be kids. To have time to play, move, and not be stuck in a desk for seven hours a day." Like the vast majority of families that choose the homeschool path of education, the Hughes believe that it allows them to teach the values they prioritize most, lets the kids have some freedom and independence during the school day, and grants more time as a family.

"Don't feel unqualified. It doesn't have to be complicated. When we don't know something, but try to find the answers, it shows our kids how to be lifelong learners" shares Rachael.
